No doubt there are counterbalancing advantages for Great Brinot conveyed to us in the brief telegram to hand yesterday. The most probable interpretation of the agreement is that another of Lord Beaconsfield's scoret treaties has come to light, this time to gain " Peace with Honour" by determining an Anglo-Russian Frontier, scientific or otherwise, in Central Asia, and by, at the same time, doing something to keep in check the systematic encroschments of Persia on Beloochistan, which not only have caused incessant strife between these two countries themselves but have been also a source of irritation and danger to their neighbours. In 1872, General Sir Frederick Goldswid, as English Commissioner, agreed to by the Shah, by the Ameer and by the Khan of Kelst, fixed the frontier between Beloochistan and Persia so as to give South Eastern Persia a large tract of never agreed to or declared, and it may be that the aim of Great Britain now is to raise Persia from the state of virtual vassalage to Russia in which she has so long lain, and allow her to occupy Herat on this condition,—that Russia prove the substantiality of her frequent asseverations that she has no desire to come as far as Herat, by refraining in toto from intermeddling in Persian internal affairs. The idea of virtual vassalage to which we refer, arises from the fact that balance due for many years by the Shah to Russis on account of the expenses of the war concluded in 1828 has never been paid, although an amount equal to about £200,000 was cancelled in 1856. If this be the correct reading of the arrangement now being made, it will be the second time Russia and England have joined hands to set Persia on her With Russia at Khiva, Persia occupying Herat, and Great Britain at Kandahar and Cabul, and with other strongholds there, a fair situation for a waiting policy would be established. This we are the more inclined to believe may be the real interpretation of the case, when we bear in mind how often we have been assured of late of a pacific solution of the Central Asian Frontier question, so. far as Russia herself was concerned. The unwillingness of Lord Beaconsfield to make public the papers found at Cabul. proving Russian intrigue there, may be justified by the uncompleted state which this proposed arrangement now stands. Any revelations which could be made of Russian diplomatio villany would so touch the heart of England as to destroy all possibility of pacification, and render the completion of that "Peace with Honour," so necessary for the purposes of the Conservatives in view of an inpending general election, a task that

We take the following note from the Bris bane letter of the Sydney Morning Herald It is rather amusing to note how often judges whose intellectual sun has waned are the last to acknowledge that a dimness of perception, an undignified querulousness, a badness of hearing, and all the other con comitants of old age are creeping upon them, and how they continue insisting, until the last moment, on their everlasting youth. We have known more than one case of the kind :---

There is a rather painful difference of oplaion between the Government and one of the Judges of the District Court, Mr I. J. Blake. Complaints have been frequent, although rather hinted than openly made, that this gentleman, whose legal knowledge is undeniable, and whose talents were equally apparent a few years ago, exhibited evident signs of the intellectual failure which might be expected at his great age. The Government having convinced them selves of the justice of the complaints, intimated to Mr Blake that they would accept his resignation in consequence of his increasing infirmities. He has not, however, taken the rather broad hint, but has replied, offering to prove by medical testi mony that he retains full possession of his mental powers. I hear, however, that the Government intend to insist upon his retirement.

GAMBLING CUSTOMS. (Communicated.)

Persons who have made themselves the least familiar with Chinese superstitions are aware that practices of various kinds are commonly observed by them, which would scarcely be believed by persons who had never been brought into contact with the people themselves. What would our most abadoned and inveterate gamblers think of be very likely to ensure success in the degrading undertaking. Now one of the uses to which Chinese gamblers put their dead is to offer them food, burn incense before them, and yow that if they will give the petitio lers success, the spirit of the deceased shall be for ever after honoured. We had a striking confirmation of this last winter in the City of Canton, where, as is well known, gamblers and gambling are winked morning in the early part of 1879; we had already got through the morning meal and some of the early duties of the day, and had prepared for a brisk walk through the atreets of the City, but on leaving the outer door of the premises were surprised at seeing, not far distant, the dead body of an elderly man. The corpse was but poorly clad, the features were emaciated, and the man had every appearance of having been a great sufferer. Inquiring the cause of his death we were informed that deceased was an opium smoker, and that having spent all to his sufferings. It happened that just at the time some important lottery was opened at Honam, and many of the people were anxious to try their fortune at the stakes. From "Chinese Notes" we learn that the lottery or "Hwa Hwei I (Cantonese Fa Ui) is a form of gambling very common in the northern Provinces of China. It is simple enough. The names of thirty-six worthies are printed in a small book, or upon a picture or slip of paper. The managing gambler selects one of these and puts it in a bag, which bag is hung up in the his or her stake, and the person who selects the name similar to that in the bag receives thirty times his stake. The extra six stakes (for there are, as just stated, names, so that the chances of each person the 30-stake prize) go to defray expenses and to bribe the police. The person who plays the highest stake opens the bag." In the present instance those gamblers who lived in the neighbourhood came to the place where the corpse lay, burned incense, presented offerings of cakes and other edible and made vows of recompense to the spirit of the already unconscious suicide. Amongs! the number of these worshippers was one who was so fortunate as to make a large sum of money the same day at gambling, and true to his word he came back and performed his vows to the person whose spirit he supposed had granted him such success. There are numerous other places in Canton to which gamblers resort to crave the assistance of departed spirits. Archdeacon Gray tells us (see Walks in Canton, pp. 251-2) that there is a place near the silk-weaving district called 猪雌岡 Chil-na-kong or 珠瑁岡

DEATH FROM OPIUM POISONING. INQUEST.

An adjourned inquest was held at the Magistracy this afternoon before the Coroner, C. V. Creagh, Eq., and a jury composed of Messra. G. A. Wieler, L. C. Thevenin and D. S. Marques, to enquire into the death of one Wan Atack, a cook in the employ of Mesara Douglas Lapraik & Co.

At the previous sitting the evidence of Dr. Wharry, who made a post mortem examination of the body, and Mr. McCal lum, who analysed the contents of the stomach, was taken, when a medical opinion was given that the deceased had died of opium poisoning.

Young Alum, head house coolie to Mr Manger said he knew the deceased as the n the 4th Mr Manger gave witness a check for $85 to cash and he gave the money to the deceased. He is not aware that deceased was in the habit of gambling. He had known him five years, but never saw him gambling during that time. Enquiries had been made, and it has been found that the bills have not been paid.

February 13.

In opening the case, Mr Johnson stated that the claim was made up in this way, Of 4306 boxes of window glass shipped, weighing 241,136 kilogrammes, 5 cases were short delivered : for these the claim was at $3.50 each, $17.50. There was a claim for $7, for 14 cases more or less damaged, an allowance of 50 cents each, in all $24 50 in respect of the window glass. All the window glass was contained in one bill of lading in which the number and weight was given. Another item was a claim for short delivery of bar fron. The bill of lading in respect of this was in the same form, and bore an entry of 155 bundles, 2,361 bars, 63,591 kilogrammes. That in pounds was 140,193, of which there was actually delivered 133,849 pounds, leaving a deficiency of 6.344 pounds, which, at $2.70 per picul, gave $123.47. The three bills of lading for old horse shoes gave respectively 80,000, 73 360, and 31,062 kilogrammes, or 184,422 kilos, in all, equal to 406,577 pounds. On this the customary loss of 14 per cent was allowed, 6.099. leaving 400,478 which ought to have been delivered. Only 893, 120 was delivered leaving a deficiency of 7,358, or 55 picula 184. which at $3 per picul, gave $165.50. Phese three sums, $165.56, $128.47, and $24.50, gave the sum sued for. The five bills of lading, in precisely the same terms,

The weight of iron delivered and also that of the horse shoes delivered was admitted and also the short delivery of five cases of window glass irrespective of the breakage. it lay with Mr Brereton to open. Mr Johnson said that claim the Captain had agreed to pay. The Judge: Then your claim is not on the bill of lading at all, so far as that item Mr Brereton: That was an offer made when it was agreed that no further claim was to be made. It goes for nothing now. For the defence with regard to the iron Mr Brereton relied on the last clause of the printed portion of the bill of lading,-" weight, measure and contents unknown," He quoted the case of Jensyl v. Bath to prove that the printed words being the usual conditions of carriage were not to be overridden by the written words-2 L. R. Excheq.; that when the weight was placed on the bill of lading and that printed clause was also part the conditions, they must be read gether, and taken to mean that "a quantity of goods, the weight (or measure) of which as represented to me, is noted on the other side, although I have not and am not to be taken as having satisfied myself that such weight is correct." This case was in 1867, He also relied on a Scotch appeal case, Maclean v. Fleming, House of Lords, 2 L. R., in which it was decided that while the bill of lading was prima facie evidence against the defendant, it was not conclusive evidence, and they could show that the Captain had delivered all he had received. In this case this was precisely what his client was prepared to do. He also referred to the Admiralty case of the Prospereno v. Palasser 1873, and to a case decided by Mr Justice questioned he said the girl had been kid-Snowden. With regard to the weight of the iron, Mr Brereton likewise explained that he had been informed on the authority of many shipmasters that the weight of iron taken on board for such a long voyage as this from Antwerp to Hongkong would

The Guild is determined, if permitted, to effect the stoppage of direct foreign trade with OPIUM -New Patra, cash ... $595 the port, and unless some alteration in the present system of paying lekin is insisted on, it will be impossible for foreign merchants to do any business. At present none but members of this favoured Guild are permitted to pay dues in the lekin office, and as opium without the stamp of the office can be seized anywhere, an effectual monopoly has been established under Goverament auspices. What with the waning power of our Consuls, Oustoms' sympathy combined with native Guild combluations, lekin commutations, and other equally is not much room left for enterprise in this

The action of the Monicipal Council under these circumstances is open to animadversion ; not only have they been seeking to levy excessive fees from the Cadiz for the privilege of connection with the Bund, watch chain was hanging loosely and caught but they have been proposing to levy wharfage dues on goods landed on the Concession. Already, by Customs' interference, the Concession is placed at a disadvantage, and it is hardly wise to increase willingly its disabilities.

> Singapore. (Straits Times.)

H. E. The Administrator is still on his visit to Penang, and no positive news has yet been received here whether Sir William Robiuson is coming out here again or going to Natal, either temporarily or China Sugar Refining Co., $160, permanently, or whether his successor been appointed and who he is to be. The latest on dit is that Sir Andrew Clarke is coming back, but seeing he has not yet left India according to the latest Indian papers, this seems somewhat improbable for this and other reasons. It can hardly be said that the existing uncertainty on this point is causing much harm either to the public service or the public welfare, but there is but one opinion as to the lack of ordinary courtesy to officials here and to the Colony and the apparent indifference to the interests of the Colony displayed in this matter by the Colonial Office and by Sir William Robinson himseif. Crown Colonies may in the eyes of Downing-Street officials. exist mainly for the exercise of patronage by the Secretary of State and the benefit of Colonial Office "Dowbs," but it is not wise in these days to display official contempt and indifference too openly and too glaringly. Otherwise awkward questions may begin to be discussed, such as whether £6,000 a year is not too high pay for an Odicial who is a mere bird of passage, who barely stays long enough amongst us to Those who go down to the sea in ships are ever the creatures of circumstance however, and Capt. Ellis was no exception to dame Fortume's chances, for both he and his trusty marine knight ran their bark ashore near Changgle, and the old salts, now waiting for freights here, are wont to indulgo in a bland and childlike sinile when the little: affair is referred to.

THE CHINA REVIEW.

China and Japan, has induced the publishers of this journal to issue a publication similar in object and style, but slightly modified in certain details.

The China Review, or Notes and Queries on the Far East, is issued at intermed of two months, each number con-tervals of two months; each number containing about 60 octavo pages, occasionally illustrated with lithographs, photographs, woodents, &c., should the papers published demand, and the circulation justify, such extra matter.

The subscription is fixed at $6.50 postage paid, per annum, payable by non-residents in Hongkong half-yearly in advance.

The publication includes papers original and selected upon the Arts and Sciences Ethnology, Folklore, Geography, History Literature, Mythology, Manners and Customs, Natural History, Religion, &c., &c. of Ching, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, the Eastern Architelego and the "Far East" generally. A mero detailed list of subjects upon which contributions are especially invited is incorporated with each number, Original contributions in Chinese, Latins French, German, Epanish, Italian or Portuguese, are admissible. Endeavour, are made to present a resumé in each number of the contents of the most recent works bearing on Chinese matters. Great attention is also paid to the Review department.

Notes and Replies are classified toge-ther as "Notes" (head references being given, when furnished, to previous Notes or Querice), as are also those queries which though asking for information, furnish new or unpublished details concerning the matter in hand. It is desirable to make the Queries proper as brief and as much to the point as possible.

The China Review for July and August, 1875, is at hand. It says that forty-two casays were sent in to compute for the best paper on the advantages of Christianity for the development of a State. All our learned societies should subscribe to this scholarly and enterprising Lieview. It is a sixty paged, hi-monthly, repertory of what scholars are ascertaining about China. The lecture on Chinese Peetry in this volume is alone worth the price of the Leview. Address China Review, Liongkong.—Northern Christian Advocate (U.S.)

Trabner's Oriental Record contains the following actice of the China Review :- " This is the title of a publication, the first number of which has lately reached us from Hongkong, where it has been set on foot as in some respects a continuation of Notes and Queries on China and Japan, the extinction of which useful serial a year or two ago has been much regiotied in Europe as well as in China. The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to eccupy a position, as regards China and the . neighbouring countries, somewhat similar to that which has been filled in India by the-Culcuita Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature, antiquities, and social developments, to say nothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked for from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Customs' corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Uhinese scholarship is now assiduously oultivated, and who are severally represented in the first number of the ferrice by papers highly creditable to their respective authors. In a paper on Ur. Legge's She King, by the Rev. E. J. Eitel, to which the place of honour is deservedly given, an excellent summary is presented of the chronological problems and arguments involved in con-nozion with this important work. Some translations from Chinese novels and plays are marked by both accuracy and freshness of style; and an account of the career of the Chinese poet-statesman of the eleventh century, Su Tung-p'o, by Mr. E. C. Bowra, is noteonly historically valuable, but is also distinguished by its literary grace. Beside notices of new-books relating to China and the East, which will be a useful feature of the Review, if carried out with punctuality and detail, we are glad to notice that "Notes" and "Queries" are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this opening for contributions on Chinese subjects may evoke a similar degree of literary zeal to that which was displayed during the lifetime of its predecessor in the field, and that the China Lieview may receive the support necessary to insure its continuance. The publication is intend. M ed to appear every two months, and will form a aubstantial octavo magazine.

THE CHINESE MAIL.

This paper is now issued every day. The subscription is fixed at Four Dotlars per annum delivered in Hong. w. kong, or Seven Dollars Fifty Cents including postage to Coast ports.

It is the first Chinese Newspaper ever issued under purely native direction. The chief support of the paper is of course derived from the native community, amongst whom also are to be found the guarantors and securities necessary to place it on a business andlegal footing.

The projectors, basing their estimates upon the most reliable information from the various Ports in China and Japan,from Australia, California, Singapore, Kin Penang, Saigon, and other places frequented Kin by the Chinese,—consider themselves Pow justified in guaranteeing, an ultimate Sir circulation of between 3,000 and 4,000 Spar copies. The advantages offered to advertisers are therefore unusually great, and Whi the foreign community generally will find You it to their interest to avail themselves of
